

Khaled of Palestine hopes to be an Einstein.

Dare we say there's such a thing as hope?

Einstein deciphered the equation of the universe. But to Khaled the equation of his universe now is " $\text{Hopelessness} = \text{Fear} \times \text{Uncertainty}^2$ ". It doesn't take a genius to figure out that if the youth of Palestine cannot even hope, then there must be something wrong. The solution to the formula starts by asking why Khaled is dying to hope.

Palestine. Dying to live.
