

An Evening With...

Zuhdi Al-Adawi

Palestinian Artist and former Political Prisoner
Featured in the "MADE IN PALESTINE" Exhibition

Zuhdi al-Adawi is a Palestinian artist featured in "Made in Palestine" and a former political prisoner. While imprisoned in Ashkelon prison, he taught himself to make art, and secretly made art during his time in prison, hiding his work and sneaking it out with visitors; when his art was discovered, he would be thrown in solitary confinement. In 1985, he was released in a prisoner exchange but was exiled to Lebanon; he since moved to Damascus, Syria, where he lives today. Please join us on Monday, March 13 to welcome him to New Jersey, to hear about his experiences, his life, and his art, and to honor this freedom fighter for Palestine, as an activist and as an artist.

DIRECTIONS TO THE LIBRARY:
From Rutgers University Campus or New Brunswick Train Station: Take the F bus to the Mason Gross/Bloustein bus stop. Library is one block down Livingston Avenue on the left. Cabs are also available at the train station.
From NJ Turnpike Exit 9, Route 1 or Route 18 North: Take Route 18 North to New Brunswick. Exit at New Street. Follow New Street to 3rd traffic light (Elks Club on corner). Turn left onto Livingston Avenue. Library is on your left.
Traveling South on Route 18: Exit at George Street/Rutgers University. Follow George Street to Livingston Avenue. Turn right onto Livingston Avenue. Library is two blocks past the stop light on your right.

Monday, March 13, 2006
7:00 PM
New Brunswick Public Library
Community Room
60 Livingston Ave.
New Brunswick, NJ
Sponsored by: New Jersey Solidarity -
Activists for the Liberation of Palestine
Contact: www.newjerseysolidarity.org
info@newjerseysolidarity.org 973-954-2521

An Evening With...

Zuhdi Al-Adawi

Palestinian Artist and former Political Prisoner
Featured in the "MADE IN PALESTINE" Exhibition

Zuhdi al-Adawi is a Palestinian artist featured in "Made in Palestine" and a former political prisoner. While imprisoned in Ashkelon prison, he taught himself to make art, and secretly made art during his time in prison, hiding his work and sneaking it out with visitors; when his art was discovered, he would be thrown in solitary confinement. In 1985, he was released in a prisoner exchange but was exiled to Lebanon; he since moved to Damascus, Syria, where he lives today. Please join us on Monday, March 13 to welcome him to New Jersey, to hear about his experiences, his life, and his art, and to honor this freedom fighter for Palestine, as an activist and as an artist.

DIRECTIONS TO THE LIBRARY:
From Rutgers University Campus or New Brunswick Train Station: Take the F bus to the Mason Gross/Bloustein bus stop. Library is one block down Livingston Avenue on the left. Cabs are also available at the train station.
From NJ Turnpike Exit 9, Route 1 or Route 18 North: Take Route 18 North to New Brunswick. Exit at New Street. Follow New Street to 3rd traffic light (Elks Club on corner). Turn left onto Livingston Avenue. Library is on your left.
Traveling South on Route 18: Exit at George Street/Rutgers University. Follow George Street to Livingston Avenue. Turn right onto Livingston Avenue. Library is two blocks past the stop light on your right.

Monday, March 13, 2006
7:00 PM
New Brunswick Public Library
Community Room
60 Livingston Ave.
New Brunswick, NJ
Sponsored by: New Jersey Solidarity -
Activists for the Liberation of Palestine
Contact: www.newjerseysolidarity.org
info@newjerseysolidarity.org 973-954-2521

An Evening With...

Zuhdi Al-Adawi

Palestinian Artist and former Political Prisoner
Featured in the "MADE IN PALESTINE" Exhibition

Zuhdi al-Adawi is a Palestinian artist featured in "Made in Palestine" and a former political prisoner. While imprisoned in Ashkelon prison, he taught himself to make art, and secretly made art during his time in prison, hiding his work and sneaking it out with visitors; when his art was discovered, he would be thrown in solitary confinement. In 1985, he was released in a prisoner exchange but was exiled to Lebanon; he since moved to Damascus, Syria, where he lives today. Please join us on Monday, March 13 to welcome him to New Jersey, to hear about his experiences, his life, and his art, and to honor this freedom fighter for Palestine, as an activist and as an artist.

DIRECTIONS TO THE LIBRARY:
From Rutgers University Campus or New Brunswick Train Station: Take the F bus to the Mason Gross/Bloustein bus stop. Library is one block down Livingston Avenue on the left. Cabs are also available at the train station.
From NJ Turnpike Exit 9, Route 1 or Route 18 North: Take Route 18 North to New Brunswick. Exit at New Street. Follow New Street to 3rd traffic light (Elks Club on corner). Turn left onto Livingston Avenue. Library is on your left.
Traveling South on Route 18: Exit at George Street/Rutgers University. Follow George Street to Livingston Avenue. Turn right onto Livingston Avenue. Library is two blocks past the stop light on your right.

Monday, March 13, 2006
7:00 PM
New Brunswick Public Library
Community Room
60 Livingston Ave.
New Brunswick, NJ
Sponsored by: New Jersey Solidarity -
Activists for the Liberation of Palestine
Contact: www.newjerseysolidarity.org
info@newjerseysolidarity.org 973-954-2521

An Evening With...

Zuhdi Al-Adawi

Palestinian Artist and former Political Prisoner
Featured in the "MADE IN PALESTINE" Exhibition

Zuhdi al-Adawi is a Palestinian artist featured in "Made in Palestine" and a former political prisoner. While imprisoned in Ashkelon prison, he taught himself to make art, and secretly made art during his time in prison, hiding his work and sneaking it out with visitors; when his art was discovered, he would be thrown in solitary confinement. In 1985, he was released in a prisoner exchange but was exiled to Lebanon; he since moved to Damascus, Syria, where he lives today. Please join us on Monday, March 13 to welcome him to New Jersey, to hear about his experiences, his life, and his art, and to honor this freedom fighter for Palestine, as an activist and as an artist.

DIRECTIONS TO THE LIBRARY:
From Rutgers University Campus or New Brunswick Train Station: Take the F bus to the Mason Gross/Bloustein bus stop. Library is one block down Livingston Avenue on the left. Cabs are also available at the train station.
From NJ Turnpike Exit 9, Route 1 or Route 18 North: Take Route 18 North to New Brunswick. Exit at New Street. Follow New Street to 3rd traffic light (Elks Club on corner). Turn left onto Livingston Avenue. Library is on your left.
Traveling South on Route 18: Exit at George Street/Rutgers University. Follow George Street to Livingston Avenue. Turn right onto Livingston Avenue. Library is two blocks past the stop light on your right.

Monday, March 13, 2006
7:00 PM
New Brunswick Public Library
Community Room
60 Livingston Ave.
New Brunswick, NJ
Sponsored by: New Jersey Solidarity -
Activists for the Liberation of Palestine
Contact: www.newjerseysolidarity.org
info@newjerseysolidarity.org 973-954-2521